

VOGUE

DECEMBER
22.

Long live the Matador.

Lubbock, TX

22
December

TTU EDITION

ATRIUM

A favorite spot amongst English students. The Atrium overlooks the path students take for the MCOM & art building

The definition of
"Modern Simplicity"

RAWLS

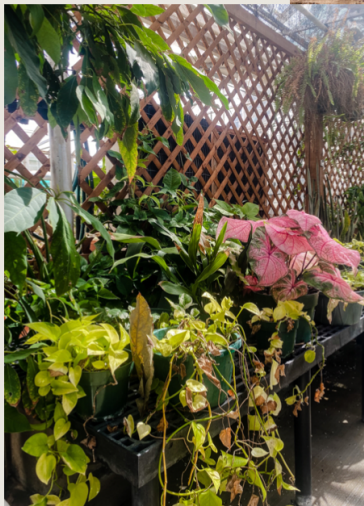

THE BUSINESS KIDS

Hallowed halls filled with young men and women striving for honor. Four floors of friendship, nerves and swagger.

The business kids of Rawls are just like their building: modern, witty and cement strong. A mix of MBA and Undergraduates can be found littering the desolate basement, where the Wi-Fi connection is scarce but the solidarity in honoring their university is strong.

AIN'T NO DESERT

THE OASIS

Dubbed "The Desert" by city dwellers, Texas Tech leans into the sneer while keeping it's true manner a treasure amongst the community.

Green buds sprout from stems in the spring, ushering in the still Texas heat with the sweet promise of Tulips that whisper promise to aspiring lawyers, teachers, nurses and musicians.

What grows at Texas Tech is hope in a flourishing oasis of minds and hearts.

Caption: Anna put her guns up just once and decided to have the December edition of Vogue right here in Lubbock! The Devil may wear Prada, but Red Raiders will always sport the Scarlet and Black.